Hi, I'm Matina — a passionate lover of design, details, and bringing soul to the things I create, as well as breathing life into objects and spaces. I'm a 3D modeler with over three years of experience. I began my modeling journey through engineering, and I'm continuously evolving in the world of art. From the very first day I discovered design and drew something on a blank page, I knew that creating was what keeps me alive and fills me with energy.

For several years now, I've been living in the world of digital design, 3D modeling, and visual creativity. Every project is an adventure for me — sometimes in the heart of colors, sometimes in the interplay of light and shadow, and sometimes among polygons and meshes! By blending art, technology, and storytelling, I strive to create worlds that are not only beautiful but also memorable, and even inspiring. My goal is to turn visual dreams into vivid realities that people can experience.
